Together, growing the blueberry industry!

Dear NABC members,

Welcome to the 2021 NABC Membership Directory! We're excited to once again provide this critical resource designed to help NABC members connect and collaborate, and to offer some insight into our committees and key initiatives.

We hope you'll take a few minutes to read about the important work the United Blueberry Task Force is doing, learn more about the U.S. Highbush Blueberry Council's referendum that's underway – and vote – and discover all of our advocacy efforts on behalf of blueberry growers and other industry stakeholders.

Together, we're championing the blueberry industry, keeping members up to date, providing timely resources and making our voices heard in Washington, D.C., and beyond.

We greatly appreciate your support of the NABC community and look forward to continuing our work to inspire all the possibilities for blueberries.

Uniting the industry

The United Blueberry Task Force (UBTF) was established in March 2021 by NABC Chair Ken Patterson to facilitate cross-industry, solution-focused conversations regarding current and future issues and opportunities that impact the continued growth of the domestic and global blueberry industry.

The globally representative industry leaders who serve on the UBTF are working to determine the best strategies for finding and allocating industry funds and resources that most effectively address industry-wide issues and opportunities, ensuring success for all blueberry industry stakeholders for years to come.

Because ensuring the future of the blueberry industry requires hard work today. Which is why the UBTF is committed to these principles:

- Moving past the 201 investigation and focusing on future opportunities and possibilities.
- Working together to inspire solutions that solve the most important problems, while uniting the industry.
- Avoiding rehashing the past.
- Adjusting USHBC and NABC plans and programs to better position the industry moving ahead.
- Building new programs that address as many issues as possible that caused the 201 to happen.

As the NABC and the UBTF continues to develop, it will inspire solutions that solve the industry's most important problems, while uniting us under a singular purpose: Growing blueberry demand and consumption across sales channels, ensuring future growth in both the volume and value of the blueberry category.

Here's a look at the agreed upon priorities of the UBTF:

Increased Promotions and Marketing

Build better marketing programs based on market segmentation and channel development.

Improved Data and Insights

Create a world-class industry database covering supply, demand, historical price and inventory.

Industry Advocacy

Significantly raise the profile of the blueberry industry in Washington, D.C.; breakdown trade barriers and improve delivery to help drive global demand.

Finally, the UBTF developed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) that guides cross-industry incremental funding to support fresh and processed blueberry demand-driving activities across multiple channels. The MOU creates a framework for:

- Volunteering contributions of $18/ton from importers of record.
- Requiring the majority of imported production to participate.
- Establishing an NABC United Blueberry Advisory Committee.

This unified incremental effort, guided by a collective of U.S. growers, U.S. marketers and importers, will source the incremental funds necessary to increase the effectiveness of the blueberry checkoff (USHBC) as a catalyst for future growth of domestic and global demand.

In the nearly five months since its creation, the UBTF has shown that with a united purpose, the NABC can bring the industry together unlike any other organization in the world!

United Blueberry Task Force members

UBTF members were selected to not only bring a collaborative and constructive spirit to the table, but to also ensure we have a strong cross section of state, region country and role in the industry (grower, marketer, importers, etc.) represented. These task force members set a new benchmark for global cooperation in developing and guiding initiatives that will support and strengthen domestic and global blueberry markets.

Support a healthy, successful blueberry industry

As you're reading this membership directory, we're midway through the voting period for the referendum that will determine the future of the USHBC. Which means there's still time for you to support it by voting "yes!"

Why? Because a "yes" vote is a vote in favor of allowing the USHBC to continue its work to support a healthy and successful blueberry industry. The NABC has led the charge for the continuation of the USHBC, and our reasons are many.

We believe the continuation of the USHBC means a brighter future for the entire blueberry industry and for your business. USHBC acts as the national voice for blueberries, with strategic positioning, creative content and smart marketing tactics that keep blueberries in the media spotlight, in every shopping cart, on every menu, on peoples' minds and in their mouths.

After all, increased demand for blueberries doesn't just happen; it takes a united effort to drive sales and maintain momentum. And it's working!

Here's the proof:

- Growing demand: North American blueberry production has more than doubled since 2000, increasing 188% between 2000 and 2019.
- Fresh and frozen blueberries set a record for $2.0 billion in sales at retail in 2019. Fresh blueberries grew in dollar sales by +8%, four times the growth rate of the total produce category where dollar sales grew only +2% in 2019.
- Total blueberry consumption is up 700%, and blueberries are now on one in four menus.
- Blueberries became the number one preferred berry for the first time in 2012, and a 2021 Patron Study shows blueberries remain at the top of that list.

The USHBC's No. 1 job is to ensure blueberries equal good business, with strong demand at a fair profit, today and for future generations of growers. In order to achieve this, NABC members must participate in the referendum, giving our partner council the ability to continue its work to boost the future of the entire blueberry industry.

Add your voice by Oct. 22 using the ballot you received by mail. Our industry depends on it! To learn more, visit bit.ly/VoteYesForUSHBC.

The voice of the blueberry industry

NABC is the voice of the blueberry industry, and our advocacy work focuses on ensuring growers and industry stakeholders are represented in Washington, D.C., and beyond. Advocacy professionals from our Legislative Committee and staff participate in legislative and governmental affairs activities year-round, often working in conjunction with other agricultural groups and coalitions.

Bolstered by the strength of our members, we tackle a host of crop and industry-related issues to support the health of your business and the entire blueberry industry.

Our advocacy focuses on these high-priority areas:

- Trade and tariffs
- USDA foods procurement
- Food safety
- COVID-19 Policy and Government Resources
- Labor
- Nutrition policy
- Specialty crops

Virtual fly-in

In March 2021, NABC hosted a Virtual Fly-In that connected us to the new administration and new Congress, and netted 40 meetings with policymakers and staff.

During those meetings, over 90 participants helped NABC raise the profile of the value of our industry; connect our industry to policymakers and their staff; and advocate for smart policies, funding and programs to support our farms.

National blueberry month

July was once again deemed National Blueberry Month by Congress, drawing attention to the industry and the economic and health benefits of blueberries. USHBC helped NABC leverage the biggest moment of the year for blueberries through a campaign that included a toolkit to help growers and stakeholders drive consumer interest in blueberries and give them new reasons to Grab a Boost of Blue.

Throughout the year, we also guided blueberry growers in becoming advocates in their communities and at the state level, and continued myriad efforts to keep the blueberry industry front and center with lawmakers, regulators, USTR and the USDA.

Targeted Crop Protection & Increased Production

Bee vectoring produces higher profits and better crops.

- ✓ 20-35% drop in disease incidence and severity: reductions in Colletotrichum (anthracnose), Botrytis (gray mold) and Monilinia (mummy berry)
- ✓ 15-40% higher marketable yields
- ✓ More durable berries with longer shelf life
- ✓ Reduced use of chemical fungicides
- ✓ Less post-harvest disease, with less rejection at the packing house
- ✓ More profit for growers!
